

GUERRERO SET FREE BY JURORS

Recluse Cleared of Murder Charge In 33 Minutes
CASE IS CLOSED

Judge Hopes Russell Slayer Will Be Found

Pedro Guerrero, elderly Pedro valley recluse, was cleared by a jury Wednesday afternoon of a charge of murdering Maurice Russell, 40, unemployed San Francisco advertising man.

The jury took 33 minutes to decide Pedro's fate. Yet when the words "not guilty" were spoken by Foreman Elmer Emerson of San Mateo, they meant nothing to the aged defendant, who sat with head bowed, hands clasped and feet crossed at the bar of justice.

The verdict meant whether Pedro was to spend the rest of his numbered days behind San Quentin's walls or whether he was again to go free to live his primitive life in the coast foothills where he has been his home for more than half a century.

Guerrero's inexperience in court matters was too limited for him to understand the proceedings as they went on about him. But when Defense Counsel Harrison Call and Edward Hoffman gleefully reached over and patted the aged defendant on his back and urged him to rush over and shake hands with the jury, full realization came to him and little Pete stood up, bowed low and with a wide sweep of his khaki hat with its rattlesnake skin band, and mumbled his thanks in broken English.

Woman Rushes to Him
His eagerness to shake the jurors' hands was outdone by Mrs. Hattie Ruzic, wife of a San Bruno police officer, who rushed from the box and loudly said: "Pedro, I want to shake hands with you!"

The "little old man of the mountains" was immediately the center of a forward movement by jurors and spectators alike. Among the first to reach him was Dr. J. C. McGovern, coroner of San Mateo county, who was deeply touched by the jury's verdict.

It was McGovern who saw that adequate counsel was had by Guerrero, although the two attorneys defending the aged man had been personally selected by the presiding jurist, Superior Judge Franklin Swart, after "Mama Pete" was first held to answer for the slaying.

All smiles now, Pedro said to Dr. McGovern: "Take me home, now. I get my working clothes and go back to my chickens!"

Who Killed Russell?
With the reading of the verdict of "not guilty," Judge Swart commented from the bench that "this leaves the conclusion that somebody else killed Russell."

Charter Sent To Capitol to Be Ratified

JOB BONDS BID IN AT 3 3/4 PCT. RATE

$112,000 Worth Sold By Supervisors To S. F. Firm
$43.00 PREMIUM
48 of 112 Bonds to Draw but 3 1/2 Pct. Interest

San Mateo county's favorable position in the bonding market was shown Monday when the first block of 112 relief bonds of a par value of $1,000 drew the low rate of interest of 3 3/4 and 3 1/2 per cent when bids were opened by the board of supervisors.

This is the first offering of the $350,000 relief bonds voted November 8.

The National City Company of San Francisco and New York, one of 12 bidders, bought the $112,000 worth, paying a $43 premium—small because of the low rate of interest offered.

The first 64 bonds were bid at 3 3/4 per cent because of their shorter term, and the next 48 at 3 1/2 per cent.

Auditor Edward M. Stack reported that not in his many years association with the county has a county bond drawn under 4 per cent interest, and he believed this was the first time that so satisfactory a rate was secured.

The legal maximum rate of interest is 6 per cent. The highest rate offered was that of 5 per cent on the first $10,000, with 3 3/4 per cent on the balance of the $92,000, which came from Weedon & Company, San Francisco.

American Securities Company, San Francisco, offered the highest premium—$1,688—but a 4 per cent rate. Bank of America offered a premium of $1,315, and 4 per cent. The First National Bank of Redwood City offered a $5 premium, and the low rate of 3 1/2 per cent.

District Attorney Edmund Scott presented a report to the board from the law firm of Orrick, Palmer & Dahlquist, San Francisco bond authorities, stating that the $350,000 issue was valid.

Buy It Here!

Local Merchants' Shelves Are Brimful With Splendid Yuletide Gifts

It is gratifying to see the response of Redwood City shoppers to the "buy it in Redwood City" appeal. This spirit will make it a "Merry Christmas" for the deserving merchants of Redwood City, as well.

There is still need, however, of further emphasis on the importance of buying at home. In the final gift-buying rush, remember your local merchant.

Give him the opportunity to serve you, first!

Nothing is more enjoyable than a leisure day of shopping "at home" in Redwood City. Virtually everything that the market has to offer has been brought here by Redwood City's progressive merchants.

Nothing that can be shown you somewhere else could not likewise be made available to you here. Price and quality and quantity are here; alert clerks are here ready to give you courteous and personal service in getting just the right gift for each member of the family; your own neighbor is the merchant behind the counter ready to guarantee the article you buy.

You will act wisely if you buy it in Redwood City.

CLOTHING FOR NEEDY IS SOUGHT

Direct Assistance As Well as Jobs Offered Here
'STORE' BUSY
Fuel Supply Plans Are Mapped by Committee

Blankets, shoes for children and men, and Christmas food baskets are greatly needed by Redwood City's unemployed.

This was the plea today of the local unemployment relief committee as it turned its attention toward direct assistance after setting in motion a program to supply as many jobs as can be secured under the county relief bond projects and through local sources.

Mrs. Alma Cain and Herman J. Phillips, in charge of clothing relief, reported at yesterday's meeting of the general committee that 500 garments have been mended and issued at the distribution store at 234 Main street, but that many calls for bedding and shoes during the current cold spell have created a shortage of these supplies.

Miss Mauricia Meyer has been appointed permanent secretary of the clothing committee and with her at the store on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons from 2 to 4 are a number of volunteer workers. It was reported that between 300 and 400 Christmas baskets will be distributed in the district. The high school, through the efforts of the Junior Red Cross, is providing 60 baskets, and the elementary schools are assisting as well.

T. J. Hallinan, food relief chairman, announced that 100 boxes of staple foodstuffs are ready to be issued from the storehouse at the old postoffice on Broadway Friday from 10 to 4 on the regular weekly schedule. Names of 100 families have been selected for the week, and the families will be served in rotation every two weeks. The county committee has been asked to furnish a paid assistant at the store.

Plans for a community fuel supply are being worked out, and Chairman C. B. Stoner yesterday appointed Kendall B. Towne and Henry Witte to interview Supervisor John Poole regarding the use of county trucks in hauling wood from the Memorial Park. From 60 to 100 cords will be sawed up and distributed in the city's light trucks. The Southern Pacific Company has offered a grove of eucalyptus trees on its property if the stumps are also removed.

Redwood City projects include $500 for improvement of the harbor and park improvements. The former job will give eight men employment for 15 days, and the latter, 10 men for 20 days. The county of San Mateo will clean the ditches and construct culverts along Woodside road, to cost $5100 and to give 1275 days of employment.

Remodeling of bridges at Monte Vista, Elmer and Vining avenues, in the Atherton-Las Lomas district, to cost $350, was approved. Widening of Ralston avenue from Sixth avenue to the Alameda de las Pulgas, and the installation of 300 feet of 24-inch storm drain at Ralston boulevard, to cost $1260, were also ordered. Twenty men will be given 15 days work.

Gutters and slides will be cleared in the Belle Monte district to cost $1200, which will give 20 men 15 days work.

TWO AREAS TO DISCUSS ZONING LAW

North Palo Alto and West Menlo Park Set Meetings
PUBLIC INVITED
Planning Commission Has Maps Showing Land Uses

First steps toward providing county zoning protection to the West Menlo Park and North Palo Alto sections in Southern San Mateo county will be taken at two meetings of property owners scheduled for next Wednesday and Thursday.

The county planning commission has completed detailed land use surveys in these districts as the first section of a county master plan. Surveys were made by the commission at the direction of the board of supervisors following requests from property owners themselves.

Meetings will be held for the North Palo Alto residents at the Fletcher residence, 521 Pope street, Wednesday, December 21, at 7:30 o'clock, and for the West Menlo Park area at the Las Lomas School house, corner of Alameda de las Pulgas and Reservoir avenue, on Thursday, December 22, at 7:30 o'clock.

At these meetings property owners are invited to meet with the county planning commission to make whatever suggestions they wish incorporated in the formation of a protective zoning ordinance for the districts.

The specific districts to be discussed at these meetings are as follows: The North Palo Alto District, comprising the area bounded by Bayshore Highway on the east, Menlo Avenue on the south, Middlefield road on the west and Santa Monica avenue and Willow road on the north. Property owners living in the above district will meet Wednesday night.

The West Menlo District, comprising all the county territory between the western boundary of Menlo Park, the southerly and westerly boundaries of Atherton and the Sand Hill road and San Francisco creek, and includes also the Stanford Week End Acres Subdivision. The estate is valued at $500 and is bequeathed to the petitioner, who was a friend of the deceased. The will was dated June 6, 1931. James T. O'Keefe is the attorney for the executor.

Tax Payments Fall Below Expectations

First installment collections of 1932-33 county taxes fell $195,000 short of a year ago, County Tax Collector Ambrose McSweeney reported today.

The collections to December 5, the closing day to avoid delinquencies, totaled $1,336,142.30. A year ago the amount was $1,531,082.29.

McSweeney said the $195,000 figure was too large for a county of this size.

Larkim was on the reserve list for the last ten years and had seen no active service during that time. Larkim saw service in all the wars since 1896 and has a good record. Mabel Campbell's Services Are Held

Mrs. Mabel Campbell, widely known in Redwood City, passed away at her home in San Francisco last Sunday. The funeral on Tuesday was largely attended by old friends that knew her in her youth as a dashing belle of Redwood City. She was formerly Mabel McNamara and was born at Mayfield, coming to this city when she was three years old. Her girlhood was passed in Redwood City.

Her father was a well-known planter of this city and conducted a shop on Main street. After his demise the family moved to the city. Her sister, Kate McNamara, was for many years a teacher in the local school department, and is now one of the vice-principals of the San Francisco school department, a position she has enjoyed for some years.

There were two brothers who became prominent in the rice business when that industry flourished several years ago. It is asserted that the young men became wealthy by shrewd transactions when the industry was at its height. Interment was at Santa Clara cemetery, where the family plot is located in the Catholic cemetery there.

The McNamara family is well known in Redwood City. The deceased married Mr. Campbell ten years ago and, with her sisters and brothers, he survives her.

Let's Whoop Again

If the people of this town would show as much interest in building up the local community as they do in the election of candidates to public office we would be in vastly better condition than we are today.

We would have more money floating in from the surrounding territory, more people would be employed, local business firms would be doing better business, there would be fewer vacant buildings, local institutions would be in better condition, and money would be more plentiful in every home.

We get out and whoop our heads off for some candidate who doesn't even remember that we are in existence after the votes are counted. We spend our time and money arguing everybody and his wife's aunt Sally to vote for "our man." We consider it a duty to "aid the party" in every way. And we do it without expectation of any reward.

We are just exercising our right as American citizens for the good of all the people.

But why expend at least a portion of that energy and brain power for the benefit of our town and our community and our own people? Why not work and talk just as zealously in an effort to encourage the business interest of this town? Why not take as much interest in your own personal incomes as we do in the salaries of the officials we elect to public office.

Pride

Pride is probably the main part of our being that keeps society at its present status after three years of such despair as has never before been encountered in this country. Personal pride in even the most lowly. Personal pride that keeps men, driven even to the verge of starvation, from stooping to do the things that their necessity prompts them to do.

What a world this would be without pride. How few there are who would not be at least extremely careless in their attitude toward their fellows, in their social intercourse and even their personal appearance and demeanor were it not for the pride they have in gaining the good opinion of those about them. It is not that people do not want to do a lot of things that are considered taboo by the standards of society in general—it is that they fear the criticism of those about them.

Many a man who knows he would be well fed and sheltered over a period of time by committing some misdemeanor, refrains because of his pride—which is stronger than his misery. He doesn't fear the incarceration in a jail. He fears the wound to his pride by being pointed out as a jailbird.

It is good we have so much pride in our makeup in this country, else we would have to build so many more jails, or take on some form of physical punishment that would act as a deterrent.

Sometimes one wonders how much there is of actual depression, particularly in California, and how much is in the mind of the people. Several times lately we had occasion to visit the wholesale district of San Francisco, and saw few men in the usual haunts outside of employment agencies. There seemed to be only the average number of loiterers in the parks—which again set us guessing.

'MESSIAH' WILL BE SUNG SUNDAY BY LOCAL CHOIR

An outstanding event of the Christmas season will be the presentation of a program of music from the famous Christmas oratorio, "The Messiah," by George Frederic Handel, to be given by the augmented choir of 50 voices in the First Congregational Church on Sunday evening at 5 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Roy A. Hohberger.

Handel's "Messiah" is more widely known and better loved than any other oratorio ever written. It was written 200 years ago, in 1741, and was first performed at a concert given for charitable purposes at Dublin, Ireland, in the same year. Handel, himself, conducted the first performance, beginning with March 23, 1743. Handel brought out "The Messiah" every year in London as long as he lived.

Life of Christ tells the story of the life of Christ from the time of the prophecies of His birth down to His Resurrection. It has come to be used especially as the Christmas oratorio. Rarely is the entire work performed in these days, because of its great length.

Twelve of the most popular numbers from "The Messiah" have been chosen for performance at the 5 o'clock candlelight vesper service on Sunday afternoon. Soloists will be Mrs. Wilbur Dole, Mrs. Philip Forsyth, Mrs. Herman Phillips, Mrs. E. E. Purrington, Mrs. Roy A. Hohberger, Otis Carrington and H. J. Phillips. Fred Taylor will be at the organ. There will be a candlelight procession and recessional by the choir. The service is open to the public.

It was rumored yesterday that the Pacific Portland Cement Company will develop its plant to be able to furnish all the cement for the new San Francisco and Oakland bridge. It was asserted by one of the officials that a branch plant may be established at Ravenswood, where oyster shells are plentiful and where the deep water channel there would afford better shipping facilities. All the cement organizations of the state have combined to handle the business of the two bridge. It will take five years to fill the contracts and it will take the output of all concerns to supply the demand. It is said that the largest amount of cement will be furnished by the local plant, owing to its nearness to both spans. Hundreds of men are to be employed by these concerns. Ravenswood is looking forward to a boom. It is rumored that more than a million dollars may be spent in developing the new plant at Ravenswood.

A brother, William Wallace Sprague of Savannah, Ga., is bequeathed property at 3385 Mission street, San Francisco. Isabelle Pool was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sprague of Menlo Park.

Twelve unemployed men will start work here on Monday on two local projects under the county relief bond issue. It was announced to the city council Tuesday night by Mayor W. H. Weed.

Six will be employed on a $1,600 project for the construction of approximately 20 storm drain sumps on various streets of the city, and the other six will be engaged on an $1,850 project for the ditching and clearing of the parking area along Creek drive in Menlo Park. A 160-foot stretch on Francisquito creek along the drive will also be bulkheaded. Both projects have been approved by the bond relief committee and the board of supervisors.

A report on proposed improvement of Hermosa Way between Santa Cruz avenue and Middle avenue was made to the council last night by City Engineer Bert J. Mehl. At a cost of $1,000 a front foot, or a total of $3,850, he estimated that the street could be graded for a width of 26 feet and that a 16-foot asphaltic wearing surface could be applied. Such a job would not be a permanent improvement and might require repair or renovation after a period of two years, Mehl pointed out.

The county board of supervisors was granted permission to repair San Mateo drive at the expense of the property owners along the street.

A resolution that municipalities be allowed a portion of the state gas tax money now given to counties was adopted by the council.

The greatest Gift of all....
A FIRE THAT NEEDS NO TENDING!

Install Gas Heating Equipment now... enjoy a Carefree Christmas

HERE is a little Christmas play.
Time: Winter, 1932. Place: Any one of the more than 143,000 homes that are now heated by gas fuel. Characters: Father and Mother playing on the floor with the children and their Christmas toys. While all through the house not a person is worrying about the cold winter weather outside.

The Solution: Not a person is giving the slightest thought to the fire that is keeping this house warm. Yet in every room there is "Comfort Zone" warmth kept controlled to uniform temperature.

The Solution: There is no fuel stored in the basement, none to be carried upstairs in boxes or scuttles because the gas heating plant is steadily delivering abundant, clean, healthful heat into every room.

Why not make Christmas a day free from all care in your home? Install gas heating equipment and enjoy a fire that needs no tending. You need but pay a small amount in cash to have gas heating equipment installed. The balance may be paid on long easy terms. Telephone the P. G. and E. today or consult your local heating dealer.

Natural Gas will maintain this "Comfort Zone" at low cost

CONTROLLED HEAT
With gas fuel you can have maximum heat instantly available and keep it regulated to any temperature desired. Controlled heat from gas heating equipment is possible by merely turning a valve or handle, by pressing a button to get high, low or medium heat, or by setting an electric thermostat to automatically maintain any desired temperature.

Match Your Bag And Shoes, Says Fashion Expert

By RITA FERRIS
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
PARIS (AP)—A new "hand and foot" ad has swept the ranks of the Army of Chic.

Smart Paris women are wearing shoes made of the same fabric and color as their handbags—whether they are leather, velvet or crepe.

The fad began when one young designer answered complaints of her clients that "good bags and shoes were hard to find by producing sets of her own. Now the fad has spread until even milady's mules match the cigarette case she uses in her boudoir.

First Made of Pin Seal
The first hand and foot sets were made of pin seal—unusual fabric for shoes. Their designs were plain and their colors subdued. Their biggest news lay in the heels of the shoes—always of a different fabric or shade from the body of the shoe and always matching a flip or trim on the bag.

Now they are a little gayer. A brown wool ensemble goes to lunch with a smart pump of dull brown pin seal having a heel of brilliant finish and a brown pin seal bag trimmed the same way.

A Red and Black Ensemble
A slim black patent leather pump handed with red lizard goes out to tea with a red and black bag which sets off a black crepe ensemble.

Velvet slippers—the newest thing in evening wear—are accompanied by little velvet bags of nights, and both are of the same color and texture as the flower tinted velvet frock which goes with them.

The hours when the smart Parisian stays at home are brightened by a Chinese lounging suit and mules of jade satin embroidered in the lotus motif which have a slender cigarette case to match them.

Shoes themselves have taken on new lines and leathers this year. Brilliant brown lizard with a leather heel, carpincho (wild South American pig) sports oxfords which lace with thongs and slim velvet slippers trimmed with enameled kid are contributing new ideas to shoe chic.

SEAL SPIRIT GOOD
"Christmas seal spirit is fine this year," declared Mrs. Harry Dana, president of the San Mateo Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis, today. "Even persons whose incomes have been greatly reduced are sending in half a dollar, or even a quarter sometimes. In other cases we are getting a check for $3 for the $2 worth of stamps."

Health Topics

By GRANT MAXWELL, D.C.

(NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles to be carried by The Times-Gazette. Questions on health problems are solicited, and where the interest is general the question will be answered by the publisher in this column. The sender's name and address must be signed to the letter, but only the initials will be published. Questions requiring answers of a personal character will be answered by letter of accompaniment by a self-addressed stamped envelope.)

THE COMMON COLD

The careless sneeze and cough are the one who spreads "colds." The organisms which cause this bothersome complaint are so small that a million of them could rest on the head of a pin without being crowded. When a person coughs or sneezes untold numbers of these germs are propelled for several feet into the surrounding atmosphere, and may be taken into the nose and mouth with the inspired air. More direct contact, as by kissing, the common drinking cup, the public towel, food and other things which have been contaminated by the secretions of the nose and mouth of a person having a cold also carry the disease. Common colds of the ordinary type are very infectious.

Grayson recommends, instead of medicine, good, vigorous exercise several times a day, claiming that the quickened capillary circulation and vigorous action of the sweat glands that accompany hard exercise are incomparably more beneficial than the merely passive leakage that follows the usage of diaphoretic drugs. If in addition to this an abundance of water is drunk and the supply of food is greatly reduced—almost stopped, in fact—we may look for amelioration of the symptoms of the cold in a much shorter time than if our main reliance is placed in the drugs that have had too long a vogue.

Cold bathing, gradual at first, is an efficient stimulant to the blood vascular system. A proper selection of underwear and clothing, especially for outdoor service, should be made.

ART MILLS WILL HEAD SPORTSMEN

Art L. Mills was elected president of the Redwood City Sportsmen's Club for 1933 at the annual election of officers this week in the clubhouse at the harbor.

Mills succeeds George J. Zehender, who retains his office as district vice-president of the Associated Sportsmen of California.

Other new officers named at the meeting are Raymond McCord, who succeeds Bert L. Werder as vice-president, and C. D. Baer, who becomes secretary at arms in place of Hamilton Day.

Howard C. King, treasurer, and William J. Graef, secretary, were re-elected.

Perry Downs was elected trustee to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Clarence E. Choate. The other trustees are Lawrence Wood and Vernon Kreis.

Personnel of the house committee was revised to include in addition to Chairman Graef, E. C. Ottman and D. F. Bernard. Graef continues to head the entertainment committee.

The sportsmen plan to stage a card party during Christmas week, the date to be announced, and because of the size of crowds which have been attending the club's events the coming party will be held in Forests' Hall.

A party for members and their wives will be held New Year's Eve at the yacht harbor clubhouse.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of last night's meeting and cards were played.

Man in Custody on L. A. Police Request

Richard J. Brooks, 32, salesman, was detained by Redwood City Police Tuesday on telegraphic advice that he was wanted in Los Angeles on a charge of grand theft. The wire to the local police did not give details.

Brooks is being held in the county jail on an "en route to Los Angeles" booking pending the arrival of officers from the south. He was visiting here when taken into custody.

GUERRERO

who prosecuted Guerrero, said late that he would not reopen the case. The same evidence which he used against Guerrero was the necessary against the other possible killer or killers, he said, and if the evidence was insufficient to convict Guerrero—whom he actually believes fired the shot—would be insufficient to convict anyone else. Deputy District Attorney Harold F. Anderson, who helped with the prosecution, felt likewise.

Woman Weeps
Mrs. Russell, whose true name is Renee Rawack, and who occupies a prominent seat in the front row of spectators at the trial, wept softly as she heard the jury's verdict. She sought to bear up bravely as she heard the jury free Guerrero, whom she had accused of killing the man to whom she had been a common law wife for 12 years.

A few seats away sat Hansen, the fourth dweller in the tragedy, swept gulch. He, too, took it stoically, fighting off any show of emotion. Some seats away from him sat Mrs. Hansen, who defended her husband against defense counsel insinuations that he had been intimate with Mrs. Russell.

They left the scene together a few minutes after the demonstration broke over Guerrero. Mrs. Russell apparently stunned—wandered about the corridors and then slipped quietly away from the courthouse—alone.

Thus the pages were closed on the two-day trial of the "old man of the mountains."

WELLESLEY AVE. SCENE OF HOLDUP

Attendant Victim; $25 in Receipts Stolen

THUG ESCAPES Crime Staged Just as Place Closes for Night

Confronted in the darkness by a lone, armed holdup man, Harry Hoffman, attendant at the Union Oil Company station, corner Wellesley avenue and El Camino Real, was robbed at 8:55 o'clock Monday night of $25.

Hoffman had just locked up the station and turned off the lights when he heard a voice command him to hand over the money sack.

The bandit, described as six feet tall and weighing 165 pounds, brandished a small .25 caliber automatic.

Hoffman complied, but asked that the bandit give him back some of the money so he could make change when he opened the station in the morning.

The bandit opened the sack and handed him $2 in nickels, dimes and pennies.

Then warning Hoffman not to make an outcry, the bandit disappeared into the darkness.

Redwood City police were notified, and scoured the neighborhood for the bandit. This was followed by a patrol of the back streets and main highways between Redwood City and Palo Alto and Redwood City and San Mateo.

A tip that a man answering the bandit's description was seen in front of the San Carlos city hall caused police to speed there, but the man had again disappeared.

The search continued until 2 o'clock that morning.

Police Chief C. L. Collins believes the man was not aided by an automobile in making his getaway, but the attendant was not certain as to this point.

The bandit was wearing a gray hat, light tan suede jacket, and black jeans, Hoffman reported to Collins.

Howards in New Attempt To Oust Bank as Trustee

Opportunity to file a third amended complaint in the attempt by Charles S. Howard Jr. and Lindsay C. Howard, sons of Charles S. Howard, the automobile magnate, to remove the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association as trustee of Robert S. Howard's estate, was granted today by Superior Judge George H. Buck.

Three times previously Judge Buck has sustained demurrers filed by the bank's counsel to the Howard sons' actions.

In this fourth instance, the plaintiffs aver that they will be able to "state a good cause of action and can overcome whatever valid grounds of demurrer the defendants have heretofore interposed."

Judge Buck granted them until December 29 to file the third amended complaint.

Two brief comments by Judge Buck on the case, in sustaining the demurrers, were:

"This suit seems to be an effort to have the court remake this trust agreement and no sufficient reason appears to warrant this court to act in the matter."

"In times of depression it might be proper for this court to suggest an adjustment of this situation."

The elder Howard sons are seeking to prove that the Bank of America, while acting as trustee for the young son, Robert, bought $1,733,200 worth of liberty bonds from the boy's trust for itself, making an asserted profit the amount of which has not been revealed by the bank, they declare.

The market value of the securities placed in young Howard's trust was placed at not less than $2,450,000 when created several years ago.
